Some Fun for New York.

In spite of the fact that the American League is to furnish Chicago with a side show. New York should not be cheated out of its entertainment this year. The presence of Jim Gilmore and his Federal League colleagues should more than square accounts for the loss of Big Ban and his henchmen. John K. Tener and his National League supporters will have nothing more serious on their chests than windjamming until Tuesday. But President Ed Barrow and his Internationalists will fill in with small time to-morrow.

Suggestion of Charles H. Ebbets for a later schedule start. The Flatbush Squire seems to stand alone on this issue. The twenty-one player roster limit and the restriction against spring training before March 1, adopted a year ago, are sure to be retained. Several National League club owners will even suggest that the club rosters be pared to eighteen in the interests of economy. Whether or not the roster limit had anything to do with it the fact remains that the National League in 1915 enjoyed its most sensational pennant race. Barrow arrived last night from Cleveland, but could not be hunted down lat any rendezvous of organized baseball. The gossips had it that Barrow intended a runout from the minors to become president of the Cleveland Americans. He went West, it is said, Americans. He went West, it is said, Americans. He went West, it is said, adopt a more rigorous roster limit than representing a syndicate that bid for the stock of Charles W. Somers. Evidently the bid did not measure up to the calculations of Cleveland's most asdently the bid did not measure up to the calculations of Cleveland's most assisted tute bankers. Barrow's chance to get thinself a real major club must consequently await his own good pleasure of participated announcement. James R. Price, it is announcement. James R.
